Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 15-17 and 24-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 15, "wherein means for providing a resistant force" does not acknowledge the fact that such means has already been claimed.

In claim 24, the pulley is said to be rotatable in only one direction followed by limitations involving the pulley rotating in "one direction" and "the opposite direction". These claims are not examinable via prior art due to this inconsistency.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 14, 15 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Wang et al '154.

See means for actuating 50, and means for providing resistance force, spring motor.

When the button 51 is pushed, the spring resists downward movement but not upward movement of the bottom rail. See means for engaging 51 and means for tensioning 322A which are selectively engaged.

Claims 1,6,7,14,19,20 and 28-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Palmer 2002/0033241

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

See spring motor 38 having a spool attached thereto (unnumbered), one way tensioning mechanism 42, paragraphs 0046-0049, which only provides friction in one direction as stated. The device 28 may be mounted in the bottom or headrail, paragraph 0046.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 16 and 17 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 8-13 and 21-23 are allowed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
